A WAITER WHO LOST MONEY.

He Intruded Upon a Conversation and Didn't Get a Tip.

From their conversation they were evidently uncle and niece, and the waiter was from the country. Her gown was trimmed with many ribbons, and it bore the unmistakable stamp of the rural dressmaker.

Notwithstanding that fact, she was good to look upon, and her interest in everything around her was vigorous and broad. They found a table in a restaurant in the Tenderloin not far from the intersection of Broadway and Sixth avenue at the dinner hour.

"Yes," said the uncle, "I have been here long enough to become a pretty thorough New Yorker," and then he ordered a modest dinner. "This is one of the bang up restaurants, and you'll always find first rate people here. My boarding house is bang up, but this beats it all hollow."

The niece straightened out a ribbon and then looked around in an embarrassed way. She was struggling with a question. As if the suggestion were altogether improbable she asked:

"Did you ever see Jay Gould?"

"Sure I have," he answered; "lots and lots of times."

"Did you ever see Mr. Vanderbilt?"

"Cornelius?" said the uncle inquiringly.

"Yes, indeed. When I boarded up town, I used to see Cornelius nearly every day."

"What did he look like?" asked the niece, beginning to feel the importance of dining with a New York uncle who had seen millionaires.

"Why, Cornelius Vanderbilt is one man in a thousand," said the uncle, puffing up with pride. "He is a tall, fine looking man with a heavy black beard. You would know him in any crowd for a man of importance. He wears his hair long and—"

"Pardon, m'sieur," interrupted the waiter, who had begun to serve the soup, and who had stopped in surprise as the city uncle began to describe Cornelius Vanderbilt. "Pardon, m'sieur, but I had had the honor to serve Meester Cornelius Vanderbilt, and you make zees mistake. He is not beeg, and he has not ze black whiskers, full beard, so. He is one!"

"Just bring me a large spoon, waiter," interrupted the uncle. As the waiter got out of earshot he said: "You see, I haven't seen Cornelius Vanderbilt since I moved down town. He's changed a good deal since then, and I have heard that his whiskers had been trimmed."

The waiter didn't have another opportunity to intrude in the conversation, and he received no tip.—New York Sun.

The Influence of Persia.

To understand the relation of Muslim man rule to religious and intellectual freedom we must note the influence of the conquest of Persia on the Arab mind. When the invaders took the capital of the Sassanids, they did not know the value of booty. Some offered to exchange gold for silver, and others mistook camphor for sulphur. They came like swarms of half starved locusts to devour the land. They were banditti of the desert, with no culture but the inspiration of the clans. The only idea of government in these tribes was the leadership of age and valor, as represented in the sheik, with a natural mixture of hereditary respect. On the death of Mohammed they broke into rebellion. Islam really came on the world like a fierce descent of desert clans on their foes.

Mohammed's ideal of government was just to send his governors through Arabia to establish Islam and then to collect tribute from the poor in camels and sheep, also as plunder to meet the expense of his campaign. Under these circumstances it was an absolute necessity for the founders of the Muslim empire in the east to adopt in the main the financial and administrative experience of their more cultured subjects. Arabo names, customs, language, rites, penetrated the empire, but under their external forms appeared the native ideas and methods. Persians were the leaders and shapers of Islamic culture. The simple Arabs learned of these larger brains and more sensitive imaginations, music, architecture, sculpture, philosophy, wine and fine apparel. Persians were the real founders and teachers of the great academic clubs and schools—Johnson's "Oriental Religions."

Forms of Incredulity.

Consider the great multitude of Christians who are constitutionally incapable of believing that there can be good in any other religious system than their own. How many Protestants are there who hold it incredible that any good thing can come out of Rome? Can you number the Romanists who are without faith in anything the Protestants ever did?

A similar peculiarity is seen in races. There are many Irishmen who can believe in nothing but Saxon "perfidy," many Poles who can believe in nothing but Russian "wickedness," many Bohemians who can believe in nothing but the German "brute," and many Englishmen who can believe in nothing but the "unspeakable" Turk—All the Year Round.

BUDS, Society

buds, young women just entering the doors of society or womanhood, require the wisest care. To be beautiful and charming they must have perfect health, with all it implies—a clear skin, rosy cheeks, bright eyes and good spirits. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, backache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best restorative tonic and nerve medicine at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy especially indicated for those delicate weakesses and derangements that afflict womankind at one period or another. You'll find that the woman who has faithfully used the "Favorite Prescription" the picture of health, she looks well and she feels well.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic displacements common to women, where there are symptoms of backache, dizziness or fainting, bearing down sensation, disordered stomach, moodiness, fatigue, etc., the trouble is surely dispelled, and the sufferer brought back to health and good spirits.

"WOMAN'S ILLS."

Mrs. W. B. BATES, of Detroit, Trumbull Co., Ohio writes:

A few years ago I took Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has been a great benefit to me. I am in excellent health now. I hope that every woman who is troubled with "women's ills," will try the "Prescription," and be benefited as I have been.

PROFESSOR JORDAN CONVERTED.

President David S. Jordan of Stanford University has joined the Salvation Army, according to the San Francisco papers. The Stanford students are flying the banner of the Salvation Army and the Examiner says President Jordan and his wife are at their head. Mrs. Ballington Booth visited the University and her magnetic personality, as much as the attractiveness of her voice and her earnestness in preaching the doctrines of the Salvation Army, induced a considerable number of students as well as members of the faculty to join in aid of the Army's work. This is considered a great victory, as Stanford has the reputation of being an end-of-the-century institution, where individual thought counts for much, and that individual thought under the lead of President Jordan, who lectures on Evolution and treats religion from a purely scientific standpoint. In the course of a lecture on Evolution delivered in San Francisco last week President Jordan said:

"Nothing endures save the flow of energy and the rational order that pervades it," says Huxley. Objects seen by a flash of lightning during a storm appear immovable. So the phases of nature seem unchanged to the casual observer. His view is short. Seasons return because conditions return, but conditions never return in the same form of life. Nothing in the universe is due to chance or whim. All forms of life now existing or that have existed sprang from a few primitive forms, or more likely, from one. The theory of Evolution is a "working hypothesis." All contrary hypotheses have long ceased to exist.

To convert a man who promulgated these views to a Salvation Army enthusiast is certainly an achievement of which Mrs. Booth may justly feel proud.

President Jordan does not wear the Army uniform but he has joined the Auxiliary Association and contributes toward its aims. He says the Army is doing a good work, though perhaps it could not be called scientific. "You cannot mix all kinds of humanity in a sieve and expect the outcome to be perfect, but the Salvation Army reaches people that we could not reach and it is better that they should join the Army, than appear in the Police Courts, for instance."

THE MANIA FOR TITLES.

British mothers of the aristocratic class are demanding protection for their daughters against American heiresses. All the young scions of nobility are in the market and many of them are purchased for their pedigree by women, whose purses are longer than their lineage, on this side of the Atlantic. London Truth says the mania for titles is inherent in the Anglo-Saxon and it is vain to contend against it. As the United States is a great loser through the accumulations of its wealth crossing the Atlantic it suggests that the titles be manufactured at home. The existence of titles, it is true, is not in accordance with the simplicity of Republican institutions, but in view of the heavy drain this might be overlooked and the parents of any girl might be allowed to buy her a title, say for $1,000,000. The public treasury would thus be filled with dollars and the girl would remain at home.

Another method suggested is to place an export duty on heiresses. A law taxing a bride who leaves this country with a titled foreigner, a reasonable percentage of the purchase price would benefit the treasury, but as it might obviate the necessity of issuing bonds for gold it would doubtless meet with opposition from the goldbugs, as all reasonable and popular measures do. Miss Consuela Vanderbilt, who purchased a husband and a title for $18,000,000, would doubtless pay an export tax of ten or twenty per cent on that amount rather than lose the title. That would help the Government and it would be just retribution, as young Marlborough, the purchased groom, is too parsimonious to pay the duty on the presents sent his bride, and to enable her to exhibit them without cost proposes to be married in a bonded warehouse.

TO ORGANIZE ON SILVER LINES.

Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina was elected last winter as a Populist to the U. S. Senate for six years. He is a broad-gauged man of comprehensive ideas, and he does not believe in loading the party which he led to victory in North Carolina with ills. Regarding the organization of the Senate, he says the silver men of all parties should unite and effect an organization on silver lines. A majority of the Senators represent silver constituencies, and claim to be for free coinage. The gold-standard men, therefore, cannot control the Senate or dominate the committees, except by the aid of men who profess to favor silver. He says it is of the greatest importance for silver men to control the principal committees, for unless they do no monetary reform measures will be reported. He favors the concentration of silver men of all parties on a bill to restore free coinage. That is the paramount issue of the day, and when it is settled in the interest of the people other questions of secondary importance can be considered. Senator Sherman, as he understands his utterances, has declared with the President for the single gold standard, and the silver men must present an unbroken front to the Cleveland-Sherman combination.

THE DURRANT TRIAL.

Sensational Developments—Evidence Manufactured to Prove an Alibi.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 23.—A strange story of an alleged plot in connection with the trial of Theodore Durrant came to light today through a letter addressed to the Coroner. The police claim that they have known of the plot for some time and the knowledge that the plot had been discovered led Attorney Daprey for the defense to abandon the plot and take to his bed, leaving the closing management of the case to General Dickinson, who, it is alleged, did not know of the plot. Six men are, according to the story, implicated as those who were to swear to a false statement, prepared for them, it is alleged, by the defense. The police say that the plan of the story was conceived entirely by Durrant and carried out largely under his direction, by the aid of one of his counsel. The plan was to make such evidence as would prove an alibi for Durrant and at the same time implicate Rev. J. George Gibson in the murder of both Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams. One of these alleged witnesses, who by his letter to the Coroner confesses his part in the plot, said that he and the others were ready to manufacture an alibi, but when they were asked to implicate Gibson they weakened and gave a hint to the police, which spoiled the whole plan.

A letter, dated October 27th, and signed George Reynolds, is as follows: "To-night I will seek rest from all worldly cares in these waters near the Cliff House. I write this so you need have no inquiet or identification. I was, some months ago, to be a witness in the Durrant trial for the murder of Minnie Williams. I send you a statement, prepared for me to learn with five other men named Smythe, Dugan, Stewart, Taylor and Harrington. I objected to take part in the matter because a part of the plan was to implicate Preacher Gibson. I assisted E. M. Thayer, Durrant's friend, in fixing up the plan. Smythe, Dugan and Stewart were to be witnesses in the Lamont case, and Taylor, Harrington and I were to help him out in the Williams case. I tried to get statements of the other five to enclose with this, but they would not give them up.

"Smythe was to say that Blanche Lamont was at his house near Hayward until Friday, April 6th, when she left her home. A strap with Blanche Lamont's name I marked myself. I cut off the end of the strap and sent it to Chief Crowley three months ago with other matter. Dickinson's explanation about the strap is clever, but very improbable. I am not surprised that Daprey is sick. I should think Dickinson would be sick too. Dugan and Stewart were to say that they had been to Dr. Anthony's funeral in Oakland on April 5th, and when returning, saw Miss Lamont on the ferry boat, Dugan knowing her well. The plan was also to produce a bloody handkerchief with the initials G. meaning Gibson, upon it. I entered five other handkerchiefs and Thayer sent them by messenger to Gibson, with a card written by Smythe saying, 'From four little class girls.' "The bloody handkerchief was to be offered, having been found in a lot back of the church on Sunday, April 14th, but it never was delivered because we declined to take part in a plot to implicate Gibson. This is all I have got to say. Let Durrant tell the rest.

"GEORGE REYNOLDS."

Accompanying the letter was a statement purporting to be the bogus testimony Reynolds was to learn before going on the witness stand. The statement was type-written and backed in legal form. It was not written by the writer of the letter, because in the type-written statement several corrections had been made with a pen in handwriting which differed from that in Reynolds's letter.

Coroner Hawkins said: "I have turned this letter over to the police for investigation. It looks like a hoax, but it is possible that Durrant or some one connected with the defense may have prepared this story, as Reynolds says. The statement which accompanied the letter shows careful work, and was no doubt prepared by some one who had made a close study of the case. If Durrant could prove what is stated in the document he would go forth a free man."

The substance of Reynolds's type-written statement was that he had known Durrant for ten years, and that he met him on the evening of April 12th, the night Minnie Williams was murdered.

The statement says that he met him on Howard street, where they talked some time. In a friendly scuffle Dur-rant was unintentionally thrown to the ground. Durrant said he was sorry that he had got dirt on his clothes, as he had to go to a party where there would be ladies present. Durrant then left for Dr. Vogel's house, and the witness, looking at a clock, noticed it was 8:35.

The reporter traced Reynolds to the address given in his statement as Central Lodging House, 817 Market street. The place is a cheap lodging-house. The janitor says that he remembers Reynolds, but that the latter has not been there lately.

MUSEUMMAN'S SAVAGERY. CONSTANTINOPLE, October 23.—Another terrible massacre of Armenians is reported to have occurred recently in Bahur district between Erzeroum and Trebizond. About 500 Museumans and Dakes, a majority of whom were armed with Martin-Henry rifles, attacked the Armenians inhabiting the several villages in that vicinity and set fire to the houses and schools. As the Armenians fled in terror they were shot down. The men and women captured by the rioters were fastened to stakes and burned alive. Armenian women who fell into the hands of the mob, it is asserted, were outraged and brutally mutilated. It is also stated that the churches were desecrated and villages pillaged, cattle and portable property of any value belonging to the Armenians being carried off by the marauders. One hundred and fifty Armenians are reported killed.

Looking for Lady Sholto. LOS ANGELES, October 23.—An injunction to restrain Lady Sholto Douglas from appearing on the stage of the Burbank Theater with the Frawley Company was issued by Judge Van Dyke this morning. The papers were secured by Lawyer Jones at the instance of the People's Theater of Oakland. Officers are now looking for Lady Douglas.

Liberated Her Lover. SACRAMENTO, October 23.—Lottie Hatfield, a variety actress, has been locked up on a charge of having aided thirteen prisoners to escape from the County Jail last Saturday night. Her lover, James Sabin, was serving a term of six months for vagrancy, and it is alleged that she furnished him with a key to unlock a gate leading from the courtyard to the alley.

LOVELOCK NOTES.

Farming, Mining and Other Matters of Interest.

During the visit last week of our own correspondent to the Big Meadows country, on the Humboldt river, many items of interest were gleaned. As a rule, the people are not as well contented as an outsider would expect, after taking into account the immense crops raised during the present season. No one was found who could give the aggregate number of bushels of wheat and barley for the season, but incidentally it was discovered that Mr. Stoker had just finished threshing and cleaned up nearly 8,000 sacks or 20,000 bushels of wheat alone. While this was the largest crop of wheat, there were others who had large returns from their wheat fields, and a great many who raised good crops of grain, although smaller in amount.

The crop of alfalfa hay is simply immense, and the hundreds of longstacks add to the general charm of the valley. Potatoes and other similar products are equally plentiful, so the prospect of a famine on the lower Humboldt is very remote.

But with all this evidence of thrift there is a universal complaint of a scarcity of money. Many of the farmers called the attention of your correspondent to the great change wrought in prices within the last dozen years. Twelve years ago wheat brought $40 per ton on the cars at Lovelocks. Now the price is about $17. Ten years ago hay was selling for $8 per ton, and now it is slow sale at $4, and all other farm products are about in the same proportion.

All the people, however, are living in the hope that the future will be brighter, and that the "good time coming" is not far away.

Colonel Joe Marzen is busy arranging for feeding a large number of beef cattle, as well as a large lot of hogs that he is going to turn into hams, bacon and lard this coming winter.

Steve Young is pushing work on his canal system so as to be ready to furnish water to the upper end of the meadows next season. Should the Humboldt river carry plenty of water next spring, it is expected that several thousand acres of new ground will be added to the agricultural acreage next year.

The Commercial Company is doing an immense business by way of supplying the farmers with "store goods," and receiving hundreds of tons of grain and hay to balance accounts. Two large storehouses are full of grain and hay, preparatory to shipping during the coming fall and winter. Mr. Peltier is evidently the right man at his place as manager, as he seems to be popular with those to whom the company sells, as well as those from whom they buy.

W. C. Pitt of the last Nevada "parliament" is one of the busiest men in the State, and as one of the results has hay stacks on a thousand acres, and wheat and barley enough to provender an army of a thousand horsemen.

J. H. Thies was away from his home, busily engaged in collecting cattle to eat the hay crop of the valley.

P. N. Marker, since disposing of his ranch, is giving some attention to prospecting for gold mines. He deserves success.

Farmers Carpenter and Reed look contented and happy since securing the season's crops.

Uncle George Lovelock has a nickel and cobalt deal on his hands by which he expects to sell some mining properties of those metals at handsome figures.

The Lovelock flour mill was running, but somewhat hampered on account of a low head of water in the river. Indeed, the mill company have been compelled to add a portable steam engine to help the power. Henry L. Beck, as head miller, and Steve May, as assistant, are turning out a good grade of flour.

But, holy smoke! what roads they have in the valley. Your correspondent, in company with Bob Reed, drove to the mill. The chuckholes are awful and the dust intolerable. During the drive your correspondent remarked that the dust was as light as a feather. "Yes," said Bob, "it's as light as two feathers."

If any of our Reno sportsmen want some fun in the way of rabbit shooting, let them go to Lovelock and then ride out with Steve Young to his canal, and they will have an opportunity to shoot scores of jackrabbits. All the gunner has to do is to load and fire, as Steve attracts the game by a peculiar whistle.

On account of sickness in his family, the town barber is going away. No doubt a new and enterprising barber could make a good living at the place.

District Court

The case of the State vs. Pete Federov was called in the District Court yesterday. A jury was empaneled after which the attorneys for the defense, Messrs. Terroymson and Summerfield, asked for a continuance in order to procure the attendance of one, L. A. Cobb, an important witness for the defense, who left Reno on a sheep train on Sunday, bound for Chicago. The Court ordered a writ of attachment and continued the case until to-day at 10 o'clock. Efforts were made to telegraph Cobb, but it was reported that the train had passed Terrace, Utah, and it is a question whether the witness will return or not.

Funeral Notice.

THE SHEEP LICENSE LAW.

Utah Sheepmen Taking Their Flocks from Nevada

The Salt Lake Herald says by the imposition of a special tax of five cents per head on all sheep ranged within its borders the State of Nevada has lost a large number of heavy flocks that have for years ranged in the eastern part of the State. Most of these sheep are owned by Utah growers and in the future they will be ranged in Northwestern Utah and Southern Idaho. The last Legislature of the State of Nevada made the special levy named and the sheepmen claim it was a trick of the cattle owners to drive the flocks out of the State. It is certainly accomplishing that end. The movement has already commenced in earnest and before it ends Nevada will be minus a large number of sheep which have heretofore been regularly taxed for the raising of State revenue.

James Sampson has just returned from the west and northwest, where his flocks are ranging, and brings reports of excessive dryness which prevails all over the districts named. He says it has not been so dry on the ranges for ten years. The gentleman also states that as a result of the levying of a special tax on sheep in Nevada there is a general movement from the eastern part of that State and Utah and Idaho will receive the sheep. He is of the opinion that the change in the situation will cause the Southern Pacific to do some squirming, for it will deprive that railroad of a great deal of traffic in mutton and wool.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.

It Will Meet This Afternoon at the Opera House.

The Equal Suffrage Convention will meet this afternoon at the Opera House. Delegates will be in attendance from various parts of the State and an address will be delivered by Mrs. Emma Smith DeVoe, who has the reputation of being one of the most eloquent and entertaining speakers in the United States.

The object of the convention is to organize for the campaign next year. The Legislature last winter proposed the following amendment to the Constitution:

Amend Article II by striking therefrom, whenever it occurs, the word "male."

If the next Legislature by a majority vote of both Houses approves that amendment it will be submitted to the people at the next succeeding general election for approval, and if ratified every white citizen of the United States of the age of 21 years and upwards, not laboring under certain disabilities, shall be entitled to the privilege of an elector. The women desire that the next Legislature shall ratify the proposed amendment and are devising ways and means to make an aggressive campaign. As they can use moral suasion only it is most likely that their persuasive powers will be exercised to their full extent during the next year and that no man who is not in favor of equal suffrage will be elected to the Legislature if they can prevent it.

SALE OF THOROUGHBREDS.

A Lot of Winters' Flyers to be Sold in San Francisco.

The JOURNAL is in receipt of a catalogue of thoroughbred yearlings and horses in training, bred by Hon. Theodore Winters at the Rancho del Sierra, in this county. The horses are to be sold at auction in San Francisco, Wednesday, November 6, 1905.

The horses are sired by Joe Hooker and El Rio Rey. They have the best racing blood in America in their veins and pedigrees so long that they throw the Duke of Marlborough and the Princess Colonna in the shade. If a European Lord or Duke could show such a family tree as some of these horses the Astors and Vanderbilts of New York would pay at least twenty millions for the title. Some of the horses are shown by their pedigrees to be the best bred in the world.

To Test Water for Impurities.

It is said there is no better or simpler way of testing suspected water than the following: Fill a clean pint bottle nearly full of the water to be tested, and dissolve in it half a teaspoonful of loaf or granulated sugar. Cork the bottle and keep in a warm place two days. If the water becomes cloudy or milky within forty-eight hours, it is unfit for domestic use.

Another Big Mining Sale.

It is reported that Colonel John Eldridge has concluded the sale of a large mining property to a syndicate of Chicago capitalists. It is not definitely known what property it is but it is thought to be the Zirn-Schulz mine located in the Pine Nut district. Mr. Eldridge is expected home in a few days when it is probable the full facts will become known.

While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them.
